KING RALLIES ON SEEING SON HOLD ANARCHISTS AS

REPORT CONDITION REMAINS ACUTE BUT BETTERMENT NOTED

Prince Worn After Strenuous Trip; Queen
Relieved

LONDON, Dec. 12.—Anxiety over the condition of King George remained acute today despite the improvement he was said to have experienced upon the return of his son and heir, the Prince of Wales.

An official bulletin issued shortly before noon said:
"The king had some hours sleep, the slight improvement noted late last night is maintained, the temperature being somewhat lower. The general condition is a little better."
(Signed)
"Stanley Hewitt,
"Dawson of Penn."

The king recognized his son when the prince tip-toed into his room at Buckingham Palace last night after his dramatic 7,000 mile race from East Africa and attendants said he appeared to rally slightly.

But it was feared today that the stimulus which the prince's return provided was hardly sufficient to overcome the rigors of the king's prolonged illness.

There was magnificent drama in the return of the Prince of Wales from his African hunting expedition. The young man who set out so joyfully only a few months ago to become bronzed under the African sun, returned haggard and pale to his father's bedside. The long trip, made in record time, had seriously sapped the prince's vitality.

For more than twenty minutes after his arrival at the palace at 10:24 p. m., the prince dared not enter the sickroom. He composed himself during a long talk with his mother, Queen Mary.

Accompanied by the queen and his brother, the Duke of York, the prince entered the sound-proof room in which his father is ill.

The meeting was affectionate, owing to court etiquette, no details of what actually transpired will ever be known, but it could certainly be imagined to be the greeting of any very sick father to a son who had been absent for three months.

The visit to the sickroom was brief, for the physicians had warned that the excitement of the king on seeing the prince might overcome the first benefits of the reunion.

The official statement regarding the meeting was terse, it said:
"Before he left the palace, the Prince of Wales visited the sick-chamber and saw the king, who was able to recognize him."

The newspapers were unanimous in their welcome to the prince.
While it was generally emphasized that the presence of the prince in England is an urgent necessity, it is believed that it will likewise prove beneficial to the king.

Greatly relieved by the return of the Prince of Wales, Queen Mary will keep an engagement to unveil a war memorial to the merchant navy fishing fleet at Tower Hill at 4 p. m. The queen will speak at the unveiling.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—Prince
George, youngest son of King George, left Bermuda this morning for New York to sail for England on the liner Berengaria Friday.
It was announced at Buckingham Palace today.

With the recall of Prince George,
all of the king's children are now either in England or enroute.

Prince Henry, third son of the king, is now enroute to England on the fast mail steamer Balmoral Castle from Capetown.

Prince George has been with the British fleet in the West Indies and Bermuda districts.

FLU EPIDEMIC SPREADING EAST

WAR SITUATION STILL GRAVE

Question Of Mediation Between Bolivia And Paraguay Discussed; Bolivian Cabinet Resigns; People Parade.

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 12.—The Paraguayan-Bolivian situation, which grew out of the killing of more than a score of troops, had reached a standstill today. The question of mediation is being seriously discussed by both countries, but the affair is still considered to be grave.

Acting Foreign Minister Alberto Palacios of Bolivia, who headed the Bolivian delegation which conferred with President-elect Hoover at Antofagasta last week, has presented the collective resignation of the cabinet to President Hernando Siles of Bolivia.

The cabinet resigned so that a coalition government might be formed to deal with the situation which is considered in Bolivia to be a "national crisis."

Demonstrations continued in La Paz. More than 20,000 participated in a parade through the city. Bands played the Bolivian national anthem.

The Bolivian congress, which has been in secret session for nearly two days, adjourned at 7 p. m. yesterday. No statement of what action the congress had taken was issued, but one politician told the United Press that the discussions had been on matters of the "greatest importance." During the debate urged that the government deal with the problem in a manner "suitable to the honor and dignity of the country."

The wave of patriotism which swept Bolivia the first few days of the dispute, has become a war-like spirit.

Everything in the city of La Paz appears to indicate that a delicate situation has been precipitated.

BOY REVENGES TEACHER'S REBUFF

Remembering a slapping that Miss Flossie Carter, Sheridan, Mich., school teacher, had given him three years ago, Jimmie Deacons, 15, characterized as the "bad boy" of his town, took out his revenge in the slaying of the teacher as she sat in her car on a lonely road near Sheridan, according to his confession to police. Above, new photo of Miss Carter and Jimmie. Below, the car in which the slaying occurred.

ADVANCE IN FLYING CEMENTS NATIONS PRESIDENT CLAIMS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The world is looking forward to the day when extensive and reasonably safe intercontinental and interoceanic air transportation will cement more firmly the bonds of international brotherhood, President Coolidge said in an address to welcome here today before the international civil aeronautics conference.

Fifty nations were represented at the conference, whose attention, the president pointed out, was to be directed to "the development of aeronautics as an aid to the peaceful pursuits of transportation, of commerce, and of trade."

"What the future holds out even the imagination may be inadequate to grasp," Mr. Coolidge said. "We may be sure, however, that the perfection and extension of air transport throughout the world will be of the utmost significance to civilization."

"While the primary aim of this industry is and will be commercial and economic and the prosperity of the world will be immeasurably advanced by it, indirectly, but no less surely, will the nations be drawn more closely together in bonds of amity and understanding."

Mr. Coolidge said the airways of the world today, which marked the first quarter century of the history of human flight, have a greater mileage than rail mileage in 1850, the twenty-fifth anniversary of the opening of the first railroad. He then launched into a discussion of

BANDITS TAKE BIG PAY ROLL

YONKERS, N. Y., Dec. 12.—
Eight bandits in two motor cars today held up the messenger and two guards of the Alexander Smith Carpet Company and escaped with a pay roll which contained several thousand dollars.

The bandits fired several times at the payroll car before they could crowd it into the curbing.

The bandits, after seizing the payroll bag, all crowded into one motor car and escaped.

CITY BRINGS SUIT TO COMPEL SHERIFF TO TAKE PRISONER

Common Pleas Judge R. L.
Gowdy will hear arguments Wednesday afternoon on a suit brought in Common Pleas Court late Tuesday afternoon by City Solicitor J.
A. Finney for Mayor John W.
Prugh, seeking a peremptory writ of mandamus to compel Sheriff Mowen, 54, 432 E. Church St., as a county prisoner.

Mowen was given fines aggregating $500 and costs by Mayor Prugh December 7 when he pleaded guilty to two liquor charges and was ordered committed to the County Jail to work out the assessment in default of payment of the fines.

Sheriff Tate refused to accept him, his refusal being based, ac-

DISEASE ADVANCES TO INDIANA; TAKES TOLL THROUGH WEST

Los Angeles Reports 200
Have Died; Schools
Closed

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—The epidemic of influenza which has spread eastward from the west coast in the last three weeks has attained serious proportions in the middlewest, health reports indicated today.

A United Press survey of the entire western area today showed that several thousand new cases had been reported in the last twenty-four hours.
California, particularly in Los Angeles, where the present epidemic first gained foothold, reports considerable reduction in number of new cases, indicating the situation there was well in control. San Francisco reported influenza virtually had died out there.

Los Angeles reported eleven deaths in the last twenty-four hours, bringing the total for the month to 146. The epidemic has claimed approximately 200 lives since its start, officials said. There were 500 new cases listed yesterday as compared with 800 last Thursday.

A total of 1204 new cases were reported in Oregon for the week ending December 8. Portland reported 173 cases today.

Five per cent of the population of Arizona has been affected by influenza with a death total of fourteen. One hundred new cases were reported at Arizona University, Tucson, today.

The epidemic was at its height in Missouri and Kansas with a majority of the educational institutions closed down.
The University of Missouri at Columbia closed down yesterday when influenza cases had filled the university infirmary.

In Illinois the epidemic apparently is not as serious as the southwestern sections. Approximately 100 cases have been reported at University of Illinois at Urbana, Dr. J. H. Beard, university health officer said. Rock Island, Ill., reported a large number of students absent because of the epidemic.

Chicago's death toll yesterday was five, but Health Commissioner
A. H. Kegel reported the situation
"serious but not critical."
Beloit, Wis., reported two deaths.
Dr. C. W. Andrews, city health officer reported there were 2,000 new cases in the city. The state board of health warned that the epidemic was gaining headway rapidly.

The larger cities of Indiana were beginning to show the advance of the epidemic, Culver Military Academy, Culver, closed down yesterday as did Wabash College at Crawfordsville. Indianapolis reported an increase in the number of cases today.

St. Paul, Minn., reported 600 cases and other cities in that state reported many children out of school.

In Wichita, Kas., the situation was becoming serious. Three deaths have been reported and 2-400 students and forty-two teachers were absent from school. Salina, Kas., reported 600 school children out of class and Parsons said 770 absent.

Latest reports from Denver said there were 2,000 cases there but Dr. S. B. Jaffe, manager of the health department, said most of them were not serious. Two governors, William H. Adams of Colorado and R. C. Dillon of New Mexico, have been stricken by the disease but are improving.

Argentine Government Orders Police Vigilance To Prevent Anti-American Outbreaks During President-Elect's Visit

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 12.—An anarchist plot against the life of President-elect Herbert Hoover has been discovered in this city but the Argentine government believes it has been frustrated.

Already several arrests have been made and more arrests were expected today.

Existence of the plot against Mr. Hoover, who is now enroute to Buenos Aires from Santiago, Chile, where he was given a most cordial reception, was confirmed in an official statement issued last night.

The statement did not reveal the exact number of arrests which had been made but indicated the identity of the disturbing element was known to police.

The president, desirous of making President-elect Herbert Hoover's stay in Argentina a happy one and to offer the greatest possible guaranty of personal safety, ordered the police to strengthen their observations of known anarchist elements. The police complied and found a house containing four hand grenades, two cylindrical bombs, revolvers and counterfeit money all of which have been seized.

It was said that the government is anxious to prevent during Mr.
Hoover's visit any anti-American demonstrations similar to those which occurred during the Sacco-Vanzetti trial last year.

GRAY RE-ELECTION APPEARS LIKELY AS HOUSE HAS CAUCUS

Bitter Fight Seems Certain; Hadden Remains
In Fight

(BULLETIN)
COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 12.—A bitter fight between O. C. Gray of Cadiz and John A. Hadden of Cleveland for the speakership of the Ohio house of representatives, was in the offing when the caucus of Republican representatives-elect was called to order at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Both Gray, who seeks, re-election, and Hadden, were claiming victory. The former declaring he has already mustered sufficient votes to insure victory, and the latter asserting he has a strong following "and will fight to the finish."

Sixty-two votes are necessary to elect Gray, by virtue of the support of the Hamilton County (Cincinnati) delegation, held a decided advantage.

As the caucus was called to order veteran legislators were predicting Gray would win and one representative went so far as to say Hadden "didn't have a chance."

Hadden was optimistic however, and it was pointed out that last-minute drive, bringing about a coalition of doubtful votes, might sweep the Cleveland man to victory.

Hadden was urged by some of his friends to withdraw and become a candidate for speaker pro tem and majority floor leader, but he insisted he is in the speakership race to stay.

If Hadden is defeated it was considered likely that he would win strong support for speaker pro tem. In this race, however, he would be opposed by a number of active and receptive candidates.

These include Grant H. Ward,
Columbus; Arthur M. Hallton, Lebanon; Charles H. Jones, Jackson; C. R. Summers, Oberlin and Dallas Sullivan of Union County.

Others in the speakership race, besides Gray and Hadden, were Horace S. Keifer, Springfield;
George H. Bellinger, Akron, and Ray Carpenter, Seneca County.

Dr. R. M. Haughey of Washington, C. H., withdrew from the race last night and Carpenter was considered out of the running today.

Representative O. L.
Carpenter has not been active and is prepared to support one of the other candidates.

Capt. John P. Maynard of Lima, who has been clerk of the house for four successive terms, was slated for re-election without opposition while Dr. Alfred Robinson, Ironton, was without opposition for re-election as sergeant-at-arms.

Subordinate officials and employes expected to be re-elected included Deputy Clerk Edward W.
Hughes, Columbus; Recording Clerk, Mrs. Ella M. Scriven, Cuyahoga Falls; First Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms Samuel M. Fletcher,
Lima, and Enrolling Clerk Effie
V. Greer, Malta.

The Rev. J. H. T. Gordon of Logan County, senior member of the house, was presiding when the caucus was called to order.

The eleven Democratic members of the house also held their cau-sus today. Representative O. L.
Sims of Fairfield County, was expected to be named minority floor leader. This was the only business to come before the caucus.

his wife was injured perhaps fatally when their automobile was struck by a Cleveland-Marietta hope for her recovery. They were

WANT RAIN COATS

KENTON, O., Dec. 12.—Impatient with returning home with drenched clothing, the fire department of Belle Center is staging a drive for funds to purchase rubber coats and hats.

The town recently authorized the purchase of motorized fire-

DENIED NEW TRIAL,
WOMAN BACK IN JAIL

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 12.—
Ruth Livermore, 22-year-old common law wife of Lester Livermore, Newcastle, Pa., was returned to the Marysville Reformatory for women today to serve a life sentence for burglary.

Mrs. Livermore obtained temporary freedom from the reformatory recently when she charged a confession she made was obtained from her through torture.

The court held the charge groundless, denied her a trial by jury and ordered her recommitted.
Livermore is serving life in the state penitentiary on a similar charge.

They pleaded guilty to robbing the John Mitchell home here of articles valued at $6000.

NINE DIE WHEN STRIKERS RIOT

BOMBAY, Dec. 12.—Three policemen and six mill strikers were killed when strikers rioted in Parel, a suburb at the northern end of the city today.

Many others were injured seriously.

The strikers overwhelmed police and began looting shops. Police reinforcements were sent and a fight began between the police and the strikers.

The strikers were dispersed, but shops were closed in the district.
Latest reports said the rioters' deaths were due to the marksmen-ship of European police.

The young man who set out so joyfully only a few months ago to become bronzed under the African sun, returned haggard and pale to his father's bedside. The long trip, made in record time, had seriously sapped the prince's vitality.

For more than twenty minutes after his arrival at the palace at 10:24 p. m., the prince dared not enter the sickroom. He composed himself during a long talk with his mother, Queen Mary.

Accompanied by the queen and his brother, the Duke of York, the prince entered the sickroom in which his father is ill.

The meeting was affectionate, owing to court etiquette, no details of what actually transpired will ever be known, but it could certainly be imagined to be the greeting of any very sick father to a son who had been absent for three months.

The visit to the sickroom was brief, for the physicians had warned that the excitement of the king on seeing the prince might overcome the first benefits of the reunion.

The official statement regarding the meeting was terse. It said: "Before he left the palace, the Prince of Wales visited the sick chamber and saw the king, who was able to recognize him."

The newspapers were unanimous in their welcome to the prince. While it was generally emphasized that the presence of the prince in England is an urgent necessity, it is believed that it will likewise prove beneficial to the king.

Greatly relieved by the return of the Prince of Wales, Queen Mary will keep an engagement to unveil a war memorial to the merchant navy fishing fleet at Tower Hill at 3 p. m. The queen will speak at the unveiling.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—Prince George, youngest son of King George, left Bermuda this morning for New York to sail for England on the liner Berengaria Friday, it was announced at Buckingham Palace today.

With the recall of Prince George, all of the king's children are now either in England or enroute. Prince Henry, third son of the king, is now enroute to England on the fast mail steamer Balmora from Capetown.

Prince George has been with the British fleet in the West Indies and Bermuda districts.

FLU EPIDEMIC SPREADING EAST

WAR SITUATION STILL GRAVE

Question Of Mediation Between Bolivia And Paraguay Discussed; Bolivian Cabinet Resigns; People Parade.

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 12.—The Paraguayan-Bolivian situation, which grew out of the killing of more than a score of troops, had reached a standstill today. The question of mediation is being seriously discussed by both countries, but the affair is still considered to be grave.

Acting Foreign Minister Alberto Palacios of Bolivia, who headed the Bolivian delegation which conferred with President-elect Hoover at Antofagasta last week, has presented the collective resignation of the cabinet to President Hernando Siles of Bolivia.

The cabinet resigned so that a coalition government might be formed to deal with the situation which is considered in Bolivia to be a "national crisis."

Demonstrations continued in La Paz. More than 20,000 participated in a parade through the city. Bands played the Bolivian national anthem.

The Bolivian congress, which has been in secret session for nearly two days, adjourned at 7 p. m. yesterday. No statement of what action the congress had taken was issued, but one politician told the United Press that the discussions had been on matters of the "great importance." During the debate in the chamber several deputies urged that the government deal with the problem in a manner "suitable to the honor and dignity of the country."

The wave of patriotism which swept Bolivia the first few days of the dispute, has become a war-like spirit.

Everything in the city of La Paz appears to indicate that a delicate situation has been precipitated.

BOY REVENGES TEACHER'S REBUFF

Remembering a slapping that Miss Flossie Carter, Sheridan, Mich., school teacher, had given him three years ago, Jimmie Deacons, 15, characterized as the "bad boy" of his town, took out his revenge in the slaying of the teacher as she sat in her car on a lonely road near Sheridan, according to his confession to police. Above, new photo of Miss Carter and Jimmie. Below, the car in which the slaying occurred.

ADVANCE IN FLYING CEMENTS NATIONS PRESIDENT CLAIMS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The world is looking forward to the day when extensive and reasonably safe intercontinental and inter-oceanic air transportation will cement more firmly the bonds of international brotherhood, President Coolidge said in an address of welcome here today before the international civil aeronautics conference.

Fifty nations were represented at the conference, whose attention, the president pointed out, was to be directed to "the development of aeronautics as an aid to the peaceful pursuits of transportation, of commerce, and of trade."

"What the future holds out even the imagination may be inadequate to grasp," Mr. Coolidge said. "We may be sure, however, that the perfection and extension of air transport throughout the world will be of the utmost significance to civilization."

While the primary aim of this industry is and will be commercial and economic and the prosperity of the world will be immeasurably advanced by it indirectly, but no less surely, will the nations be drawn more closely together in bonds of amity and understanding."

Mr. Coolidge said the airways of the world today, which marked the first quarter century of the history of human flight, have a greater mileage than rail mileage in 1850, the twenty-fifth anniversary of the opening of the first railroad. He then launched into a discussion of the aid given aeronautics by the federal government. He said:

"The aeronautics branch of our department of commerce is vigilant, resourceful, and progressive. It has inaugurated a comprehensive system of regulation and control of aircraft manufacture as well as operation. Airways are laid out over the best flying country, and aids to flying, such as beacons and weather reports, are furnished. An air-information service is maintained and aeronautic research carried on through the bureau of standards. Valuable co-operation is rendered in the establishment and equipment of airports."

BANDITS TAKE BIG PAY ROLL

YONKERS, N. Y., Dec. 12.—Eight bandits in two motor cars today held up the messenger and two guards of the Alexander Smith Carpet Company and escaped with a pay roll which contained several thousand dollars.

The bandits fired several times at the payroll car before they could crowd it into the curbing.

The bandits after seizing the payroll bag, all crowded into one motor car and escaped.

DENIED NEW TRIAL, WOMAN BACK IN JAIL

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 12.—Ruth Livermore, 22-year-old common law wife of Lester Livermore, Newcastle, Pa., was returned to the Marysville Reformatory for women today to serve a life sentence for burglary.

Mrs. Livermore obtained temporary freedom from the reformatory recently when she charged a confession she made was obtained from her through torture.

The court held the charge groundless, denied her a trial by jury and ordered her recommitted. Livermore is serving life in the state penitentiary on a similar charge.

They pleaded guilty to robbing the John Mitchell home here of articles valued at $6000.

DISEASE ADVANCES TO INDIANA; TAKES TOLL THROUGH WEST

Los Angeles Reports 200 Have Died; Schools Closed

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—The epidemic of influenza which has spread eastward from the west coast in the last three weeks has attained serious proportions in the middle-west, health reports indicated today.

A United Press survey of the entire western area today showed that several thousand new cases had been reported in the last twenty-four hours.

California, particularly in Los Angeles, where the present epidemic first gained foothold, reports considerable reduction in number of new cases, indicating the situation there was well in control. San Francisco reported influenza virtually had died out there.

Los Angeles reported eleven deaths in the last twenty-four hours, bringing the total for the month to 146. The epidemic has claimed approximately 200 lives since its start, officials said. There were 500 new cases listed yesterday as compared with 800 last Thursday.

A total of 1204 new cases were reported in Oregon for the week ending December 8. Portland reported 173 cases today.

Five per cent of the population of Arizona has been affected by influenza with a death total of one hundred. One hundred new cases were reported at Arizona University, Tucson, today.

The epidemic was at its height in Missouri and Kansas with a majority of the educational institutions closed down.

The University of Missouri at Columbia closed down yesterday when influenza cases had filled the university infirmary.

In Illinois the epidemic apparently is not as serious as the southwestern sections. Approximately 100 cases have been reported at University of Illinois at Urbana, Dr. J. H. Beard, university health officer said. Rock Island, Ill., reported a large number of students absent because of the epidemic.

Chicago's death toll yesterday was five, but Health Commissioner said he reported the situation "serious but not critical."

Beloit, Wis., reported two deaths. Dr. C. W. Andrews, city health officer reported there were 2,000 new cases in the city. The state board of health warned that the epidemic was gaining headway rapidly.

The larger cities of Indiana were beginning to show the advance of the epidemic. Culver Military Academy, Culver, Ind., closed down yesterday as did Wabash College at Crawfordsville. Indianapolis reported an increase in the number of cases today.

St. Paul, Minn., reported 600 cases and other cities in that state reported many children out of school.

In Wichita, Kas., the situation was becoming serious. Three deaths have been reported and 2,400 students and forty-two teachers were absent from school. Salina, Kas., reported 600 school children out of class and Parsons had 770 absent.

Latest reports from Denver said there were 2,000 cases there but Dr. S. B. Jaffa, manager of the health department, said most of them were not serious. Two governors, William H. Adams of Colorado and R. C. Dillon of New Mexico, have been stricken by the disease but are improving.

CITY BRINGS SUIT TO COMPEL SHERIFF TO TAKE PRISONER

Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy will hear arguments Wednesday afternoon on a suit brought in Common Pleas Court late Tuesday afternoon by City Solicitor J. A. Finney for Mayor John W. Prugh, seeking a peremptory writ of mandamus to compel Sheriff Ohmer Tate to accept Charles Mowen, 54, 432 E. Church St., as a county prisoner.

Mowen was given fines aggregating $500 and costs by Mayor Prugh December 7 when he pleaded guilty to two liquor charges and was ordered committed to the County Jail to work out the assessment in default of payment of the fines.

Sheriff Tate refused to accept him, his refusal being based, ac-

Argentine Government Orders Police Vigilance To Prevent Anti-American Outbreaks During President-Elect's Visit

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 12.—An anarchist plot against the life of President-elect Herbert Hoover has been discovered in this city but the Argentine government believes it has been frustrated.

Already several arrests have been made and more arrests were expected today.

Existence of the plot against Mr. Hoover, who is now enroute to Buenos Aires from Santiago, Chile, where he was given a most cordial reception, was confirmed in an official statement issued last night.

The statement did not reveal the exact number of arrests which had been made but indicated the identity of the disturbing element was known to police.

The announcement said: "The president, desirous of making President-elect Herbert Hoover's stay in Argentina a happy one and to offer the greatest possible guaranty of personal safety, ordered the police to strengthen their observations of known anarchist elements. The police complied and found a house containing four hand grenades, two cylindrical bombs, revolvers and counterfeit money all of which have been seized."

It was said that the government is anxious to prevent during Mr. Hoover's visit any anti-American demonstrations similar to those which occurred during the Sacco-Vanzetti trial last year.

GRAY RE-ELECTION APPEARS LIKELY AS HOUSE HAS CAUCUS

Bitter Fight Seems Certain; Hadden Remains In Fight

(BULLETIN)
COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 12.—O. C. Gray, Cadiz, was re-elected speaker of the Ohio house of representatives at the caucus of Republican representatives-elect here this afternoon.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 12.—A bitter fight between O. C. Gray of Cadiz and John A. Hadden of Cincinnati for the speakership of the Ohio house of representatives, was in the offing when the caucus of Republican representatives-elect was called to order at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Both Gray, who seeks, re-election, and Hadden, were claiming victory, the former declaring he has already mustered sufficient votes to insure victory, and the latter asserting he has a strong following "and will fight to the finish."

Sixty-two votes are necessary to elect Gray, by virtue of the support of the Hamilton County (Cincinnati) delegation, held a decided advantage.

As the caucus was called to order veteran legislators were predicting Gray would win and one representative went so far as to say Hadden "didn't have a chance."

Hadden was optimistic however, and it was pointed out that last-minute drive, bringing about a coalition of doubtful votes, might sweep the Cleveland man to victory.

Hadden was urged by some of his friends to withdraw and become a candidate for speaker pro tem. In this race, however, he would be opposed by a number of active and receptive candidates.

These include Grant H. Ward, Columbus; Arthur M. Hallton, Lebanon; Charles H. Jones, Jackson; C. R. Summers, Oberlin and Dallas Sullivan of Union County.

Others in the speakership race, besides Gray and Hadden, were Horace S. Keifer, Springfield; George H. Bellinger, Akron, and Ray Carpenter, Seneca County.

Dr. R. M. Haughey of Washington, C. H., withdrew from the race last night and Carpenter was considered out of the running today.

Carpenter has not been active and is prepared to support one of the other candidates.

Capt. John P. Maynard of Lima, who has been clerk of the house for four successive terms, was slated for re-election without opposition while Dr. Alfred Robinson, Ironton, was without opposition for re-election as sergeant-at-arms.

Subordinate officials and employees expected to be re-elected included Deputy Clerk Edward Hughes, Columbus.

Recording Clerk, Mrs. Ella M. Scriven, Cuyahoga Falls; First Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms, Samuel M. Fletcher, Lima, and Enrolling Clerk Effie V. Gregg, Malta.

The Rev. J. H. T. Gordon of Logan County, senior member of the house, was presiding when the caucus was called to order. The eleven Democratic members of the house also held their caucus today. Representative O. L. Sims of Fairfield County, was expected to be named minority leader. This was the only business to come before the caucus.

Xenia Resident Describes How New Konjola Restored His Health After Short Treatment

still suffering from these ailments, but every day more and more of these same sufferers are turning to Konjola for relief. Hundreds of statements have been published, many from this city, in which is told how Konjola restored a new state of health. Just a few days ago Mr. Ernest Kersey, 4 South Miller Avenue, Xenia, made the following statement to the Konjola Man at the Gallaher Drug Store, 33 East Main St., this city, where he is explaining the merits of Konjola:

"I will always recommend Konjola to anyone who is suffering," said Mr. Kersey, "because this medicine ended all trace of stomach and kidney trouble for me.

"For over two years my stomach and kidneys had caused me intense suffering. My kidneys were in a very bad state and each action showed traces of sugar and a yellowish-brown sediment. Due to the disordered condition of my stomach every bite of food formed gas that 'battered' against my heart. Quite often I became so dizzy that I fell to the floor. One day while in Sabina, Ohio, I fell twice to the street. My appetite left me and I had no desire to eat because of the suffering afterward. For more than six years I did not enjoy a complete night's sleep and always felt worn-out. You can better realize my condition when I say that I spent two years in Leeburg for treatment. Even then I never knew what health was and thought I would go through the rest of my life in this condition.

"Just about this time I started on the treatment of Konjola and this medicine worked wonders on my system. In an amazing short time I noticed a new feeling of health over my entire system. I wouldn't think of missing a dose and soon had completed the entire treatment. Now I want to tell everyone that I have received permanent relief from my health troubles. I am able to eat all kinds of food without the least after effect. The gas bloating and dizzy spells are ended. It is a pleasure to sit down to a meal because I know that I will receive the proper nourishment. Konjola also regulated my kidneys and banished the unhealthy color and sediment. In every way I have been benefited and now sleep just like a child. It is a pleasure to endorse such a medicine as Konjola."

The Konjola Man is at the Gallaher Drug Store, 33 East Main St., Xenia, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this medicine.

NOT A COUGH IN A CARLOAD

The utilities of a city are combined
in your motor car

YOUR automobile is something like a miniature city. There is an electric light and power system, a water system, a fuel system.

In the new Ford, you will find each of these systems of the latest design and built of the best materials. Every part has been made to serve you faithfully and well and at a minimum of trouble and expense.

Take, for example, the generator—one of the most important parts of the electrical system which supplies the current for lighting and for engine ignition.

In the new Ford, the generator is of the power-house type and is distinctive in many features. It has been specially designed to prevent most forms of trouble. Oiling is necessary only once a year. About the only thing you need do is to have the charging rate changed as the seasons change.

Closely allied to the electrical system is the ignition system. It, too, is of new mechanical design in the new Ford. There is but one high tension cable and that connects the coil with the distributor. Even cables from the distributor to the spark plugs have been eliminated. Special care has also been taken to make the distributor water-proof, thus preventing short circuits from rain, etc.

The electrical and ignition systems of the new Ford are so simple in design and so carefully made that they will give you surprisingly little trouble. Yet that doesn't mean they should be neglected. Certain little attentions are needed from time to time.

The storage battery should be given water and the connections kept clean. The generator charging rate should be changed as indicated. Spark plugs should be cleaned at regular intervals. Distributor points should also be kept clean and the distributor cam given a light film of vaseline every 2000 miles.

These are just little things, but they mean a great deal to your car. You can have them looked after at very small cost by the Ford dealer when you take the car in for oiling and greasing.

A thorough checking-up at regular intervals will lengthen the life of your car and give you many thousands of miles of care-free, economical motoring.

They were not fairy stories, and the like, but were stories on how fire was made, and how water was made. A little later they published books on manners for their children. Then the old folks read the books that children today enjoy.

The utilities of a city are combined in your motor car

YOUR automobile is something like a miniature city. There is an electric light and power system, a water system, a fuel system.

In the new Ford, you will find each of these systems of the latest design and built of the best materials. Every part has been made to serve you faithfully and well and at a minimum of trouble and expense.

Take, for example, the generator—one of the most important parts of the electrical system which supplies the current for lighting and for engine ignition.

In the new Ford, the generator is of the power-house type and is distinctive in many features. It has been specially designed to prevent most forms of trouble. Oiling is necessary only once a year. About the only thing you need do is to have the charging rate changed as the seasons change.

Closely allied to the electrical system is the ignition system. It, too, is of new mechanical design in the new Ford. There is but one high tension cable and that connects the coil with the distributor. Even cables from the distributor to the spark plugs have been eliminated. Special care has also been taken to make the distributor water-proof, thus preventing short circuits from rain, etc.

The electrical and ignition systems of the new Ford are so simple in design and so carefully made that they will give you surprisingly little trouble. Yet that doesn't mean they should be neglected. Certain little attentions are needed from time to time.

The storage battery should be given water and the connections kept clean. The generator charging rate should be changed as indicated. Spark plugs should be cleaned at regular intervals. Distributor points should also be kept clean and the distributor cam given a light film of vaseline every 2000 miles.

These are just little things, but they mean a great deal to your car. You can have them looked after at very small cost by the Ford dealer when you take the car in for oiling and greasing.

A thorough checking-up at regular intervals will lengthen the life of your car and give you many thousands of miles of care-free, economical motoring.

The Junior Woman's Club had the pleasure of entertaining a native French woman as a feature of the year's program on Friday, when Madame Pauvet-McLaughlin, Dayton, appeared before the club at the home of Mrs. J. D. Steele, Tuesday afternoon.

Madame McLaughlin was brought before the club by Mrs. Steele and Mrs. Brant Bell was a gracious hostess to the members of the Sara M. Chew Missionary Society, Trinity M. E. Church, at her home on Hill St., Monday evening.

The meeting was the Christmas party of the society and Mrs. J. J. Stout was in charge of an interesting program, which opened with the singing of "Holy Night."

Devotions were in charge of Mrs. James Canaday and Mrs. Stout gave a review of the chapter from the study book. Two piano numbers were given by Rachel Bell, after which Mrs. Stout conducted a unique review of the work among the different nationalities. Each nation was represented by a member of the society who told of the work among the people she represented.

Those taking part were Mrs. Sherwin Spahr, Miss Georgia Ledbetter, Mrs. Charles Scott, Mrs. J. R. Laycock and Mrs. Stout.

THREATENED FLU EPIDEMIC IN COUNTY CAN BE PREVENTED

Although there are a number of mild cases of influenza in the city and cases of the disease reported over the county, an epidemic can be stopped if proper preventive measures are taken, according to City Health Commissioner A. D. DeHaven.

Mild attacks of the disease ranging from heavy colds to symptoms denoting the "flu" are under the care of physicians. Epidemics of influenza have been reported all over the country, but Greene County has not appeared to be as severely hit as other localities.

The disease is generally prevalent at this time of year, Dr. DeHaven says, due to the breeding of the influenza germ during the uneven temperature.

First of the preventive measures is the caution in not over-loading the stomach of persons who feel symptoms of the disease, the health commissioner said. Xenians are warned to stay away from people suffering from heavy colds or mild attacks of grip or influenza.

With the appearance of chills and other symptoms, one should go immediately to bed, and call a doctor and follow his treatment.

No serious cases of "flu" have been reported in Greene County. The disease seems to have struck every locality, but each case has been mild and responded to treatment.

RUSSIAN DUKE INTERESTED IN NAME OF XENIA; DUCHESS HAS SAME NAME, SAID

The legend of how Xenia got its name is explained in a letter written by City School Superintendent Louis Hammerle to L. N. Hines, president of Indiana State Normal School, Terre Haute, Ind., for the benefit of Duke Alexander, of Russia, a noted lecturer, whose wife's name is also Xenia.

President Hines wrote Superintendent Hammerle for information on the subject, declaring that Duke Alexander recently delivered a lecture at the normal school.

In conversation before the lecture, the speaker and the school president were discussing the names of American cities. The Russian remembered that near Dayton there is a city with a name exactly the same as that of his wife, namely, Xenia, and he was curious as to how the city came to have its name.

"Xenia," wrote the superintendent, according to a story attributed to the late Mrs. Maria Stone, Springfield, O., the youngest daughter of the late Gen. Benjamin Whitman, was named in 1804 by the Rev. Robert Armstrong.

"Soon after county commissioners had decided upon the site at the forks of Shawnee run for the new county seat, the commissioners met at the 'crossroads' in view of the present Main and Detroit Sts., to select a name. At their invitation several of the pioneer families were represented and many other citizens also attended to aid them in the selection of a suitable name."

"Many names were suggested. During the discussion, a scholarly-looking man stepped forward and said: 'Gentlemen, allow me to suggest a name for your county town. In view of the kind and hospitable manner with which I have been treated whilst a stranger to these parts of you, allow me to suggest the name of 'Xenia,' taken from the Greek and signifying hospitality.'"

"The man was the Rev. Robert Armstrong, who one year later became the pastor of Massies Creek and Sugar Creek congregations of the Associate Presbyterian (Seceder) Church in Greene County."

"A vote between Xenia and a now forgotten name resulted in the request that Mrs. Leticia Davis, widow of the first miller in Greene County, cast the deciding vote. She voted in favor of Xenia as the name."

Ries recommends the purchase of a growing Christmas tree in a tub. After its capacity as a hall tree for Santa has ended, the live tree may be planted in the yard as an ornament.

French Woman Discusses Her Native Country

The Junior Woman's Club had the pleasure of entertaining a native French woman as a feature of the year's program on France, when Madame Fauvet-McLaughlin, Dayton, appeared before the club at the home of Mrs. J. D. Steele, Tuesday afternoon.

Madame McLaughlin was brought before the club by Mrs. Steele and Mrs. Brant Bell was a gracious hostess to the members of the Sara M. Chew Missionary Society, Trinity M. E. Church, at her home on Hill St., Monday evening.

The meeting was the Christmas party of the society and Mrs. J. J. Stout was in charge of an interesting program, which opened with the singing of "Holy Night."

Devotions were in charge of Mrs. James Canaday and Mrs. Stout gave a review of the chapter from the study book. Two piano numbers were given by Rachel Bell, after which Mrs. Stout conducted a unique review of the work among the different nationalities. Each nation was represented by a member of the society who told of the work among the people she represented.

Those taking part were Mrs. Sherwin Spahr, Miss Georgia Ledbetter, Mrs. Charles Cross, Mrs. J. R. Laycock and Mrs. Stout. Following the program a tempting refreshment course was served. Gifts brought by the members were piled about a miniature Christmas tree and will be sent to one of the mission homes of the society.

A "pantry shelf shower" was arranged on Mrs. Dabe, who received many useful gifts. The evening was spent with games and music. Miss Mary Heaton playing several piano selections.

A Sudden End to Stomach Trouble

AIN or discomfort following a meal doesn't mean you must go on a "diet." Nine times out of ten indigestion, acidity, flatulence and heartburn are caused by excess stomach acid and food fermentation.

After too hasty a lunch, or too hearty a dinner, a little "Pape's Diapiesin" instantly neutralizes excess acidity, stops that fermentation, and soothes and heals the acid-inflamed stomach lining as if by magic. Your recovery is quick and complete. Make special point of getting a 60-cent package of "Pape's Diapiesin" from your druggist today, and so follow the example of millions all over the world who use "Pape's Diapiesin" to end indigestion and allied stomach troubles.

With "Pape's Diapiesin" handy you can eat and enjoy whatever you fancy without fear of pain or discomfort to follow. At any rate, it's worth the trial for lots of folks have found a new freedom at the table.

Mrs. Walter R. Harner and her appearance featured one of the most interesting programs the club has enjoyed.

Madame McLaughlin married an American officer during the World War, during which she served her country by driving an ambulance. Her experiences formed the background for an interesting discussion of "The France of Today" with particular reference to Paris.

Her address was augmented by stereopticon pictures of France, furnished through the courtesy of Supt. Louis Hammerle, of the Xenia City Schools.

Miss Florence Steele added further pleasure to the program with two French songs, "The Song of the Lark," by Lehar, and the aria "Depuis le Jour," from the opera "Louise," by Charpentier.

Mrs. E. C. Moorman will have charge of the program on "International Relations" and the Rev. H. B. McElreath will give a talk on the Kellogg Peace Pact, at the meeting of A. C. Turrell W. C. T. U., at the home of Mrs. Charles A. Bone, N. King St., Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Members are urged to bring guests.

The Food Club of the Trebeins neighborhood under the auspices of the Greene County Farm Bureau met with Mrs. Ernest Bradford, Tuesday afternoon. Miss Nellie Ankeney and Miss Emma Cosler were assistant hostesses in entertaining the fifty club members.

The subject of the afternoon was "The Use of Cottage Cheese and Carrots in Salads and Sandwiches."

The condition of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Collins, of Columbus, who are in the City Hospital, Springfield, with injuries received in an auto accident recently, is quite favorable. The doctors pronounce Mr. Collins out of danger.

Mrs. Pearl Purdom, Fairground Road, underwent a serious operation at the McClellan Hospital, Tuesday. She is recovering nicely.

Mrs. John Derrick, Fayette St., is confined to her home with an attack of grip.

MODERN SHYLOCK TAKES APPENDIX

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., Dec. 12.—Al Gutierrez, a garage mechanic, didn't have the love of a Portia to save him from paying a "pound of flesh."

Consequently, Gutierrez gave up his "pound of flesh" but not from over the heart where William Shakespeare arranged for Shylock to take a pound of flesh from Bassanio.

Gutierrez paid with his appendix. While repairing the automobile of Charles Celaya, Rio Grande City banker, the mechanic told the owner he found a squeak in the springs. Celaya was so certain the squeak was in the stabilizers that he backed up his contention with $10. Gutierrez, unable to post cash, finally covered with his appendix.

He lost the bet and today, after physicians had pronounced him recovered, he delivered the appendix to the banker in a bottle.

Prominent aeronautical leaders from all parts of the world will attend. Orville Wright is the guest of honor, and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is a member of the American delegation.

THREATENED FLU EPIDEMIC IN COUNTY CAN BE PREVENTED

Although there are a number of mild cases of influenza in the city and cases of the disease reported over the county, an epidemic can be stopped if proper preventive measures are taken, according to City Health Commissioner A. D. DeHaven.

Mild attacks of the disease ranging from heavy colds to symptoms denoting the "flu" are under the care of physicians. Epidemics of influenza have been reported all over the country, but Greene County does not appear to be as severely hit as other localities.

The disease is generally prevalent at this time of year, Dr. DeHaven says, due to the breeding of the influenza germ during the uneven temperature.

First of the preventive measures is the caution in not over-loading the stomach by persons who feel symptoms of the disease, the health commissioner said. Xenians are warned to stay away from people suffering from heavy colds or mild attacks of grip or influenza.

With the appearance of chills and other symptoms, one should go immediately to bed, and call a doctor and follow his treatment.

No serious cases of "flu" have been reported in Greene County. The disease seems to have struck every locality, but each case has been mild and responded to treatment.

RUSSIAN DUKE INTERESTED IN NAME OF XENIA; DUCHESS HAS SAME NAME, SAID

The legend of how Xenia got its name is explained in a letter written by City School Superintendent Louis Hammerle to L. N. Hines, president of Indiana State Normal School, Terre Haute, Ind., for the benefit of Duke Alexander, of Russia, a noted lecturer, whose wife's name is also Xenia.

President Hines wrote Superintendent Hammerle for information on the subject, declaring that Duke Alexander recently delivered a lecture at the normal school.

In conversation before the lecture, the speaker and the school president were discussing the names of American cities. The Russian remembered that near Dayton there is a city with a name exactly the same as that of his wife, namely, Xenia, and he was curious as to how the city came to have its name.

"Xenia," wrote the superintendent, according to a story attributed to the late Mrs. Maria Stone, Springfield, O., the youngest daughter of the late Gen. Benjamin Whiteman, was named in 1894 by the Rev. Robert Armstrong.

"Soon after county commissioners had decided upon the site at the forks of Shawnee run for the new county seat, the commissioners met at the 'cross-roads,' the intersection of the present Main and Detroit Sts., to select a name. At their invitation several of the pioneer families were represented and many other citizens also attended to aid them in the selection of a suitable name.

"Many names were suggested. During the discussion, a scholarly-looking man stepped forward and said: 'Gentlemen, allow me to suggest a name for your county town. In view of the kind and hospitable manner with which I have been treated whilst a stranger to most of you, allow me to suggest the name of Xenia,' taken from the Greek and signifying hospitality."

"The man was the Rev. Robert Armstrong, who one year later became the pastor of Massies Creek and Sugar Creek congregations of the Associate Presbyterian (Seceder) Church in Greene County."

"A tie vote between Xenia and a now forgotten name resulted in the request that Mrs. Leticia Davis, widow of the first miller in Greene County, cast the deciding vote. She voted in favor of Xenia as the name."

FORMER STUDENTS AT ANTIOCH WITH SARG MARIONETTES

Two former Antioch College students are members of Tony Sarg's company which will present the marionette performance, "Adventures of Christopher Columbus," at Xenia Central High School Thursday night.

They are Jean Montgomery and Donald McGee, who conducted a puppet show of their own creation at Antioch last year. The students rig up a platform in the attic at the college and presented plays in what they termed the "Attic Theater."

The plays became extremely popular with the college students and many Antioch students and residents of Yellow Springs are expected to witness the "Tony Sarg" production here Thursday night.

The puppets used by Sarg's company belong to the modern "artistic marionettes," so called to distinguish them from the old order. They are stringed dolls manipulated above the stage and animated by head, wrist, knee, back and breast strings attached to a "controller," a device held in the hands of the puppeteer, and by means of which the dolls are put through their paces on the stage.

Additional strings are added to the more elaborate dolls, some of them having from twenty-five to thirty strings, and the more intricate "stunts" require two puppeteers to perform them. Some marionettes belong to another type, operated from beneath the stage by means of sticks.

No results of the flight were announced pending official reading of the sealed barographs at Washington where the bureau of standards will calibrate them.

The fliers encountered a temperature of eighty degrees below zero as contrasted with seventy-six degrees recorded on their last attempt to set a record in October, when an altitude of 37,000 feet was reached.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE SILENT SUFFERER—He was oppressed, and he was afflicted, yet he opened not his mouth: he was brought as a lamb to the slaughter, and as a sheep before her shearers is dumb, so he openeth not his mouth.—Isa. 53:7.

NEW "TEETH" TO PROTECT "EASY MARKS"

Groups and individuals working on drafts of a proposed new "blue sky" law for Ohio have in mind an act which will eliminate some of the palpable defects in the old statute and effect other changes needed for facilitate administration of the law. That the law will be modified by the next legislature is deemed certain.

This agitation for modification should not be cited as proof that regulation of the securities business in this state has failed of its purpose to protect the public against fraudulent financial schemes and bogus stocks and bonds. In this field the state has accomplished much, and considers changing the securities law only with the thought in mind of accomplishing still more. Curbing the activities of the crooked stock salesman may be bureaucracy and socialism, as enemies of the "blue sky" law charge, but first it is good government and good business.

It seems to be the unanimous thought of the Ohio State Bar Association Investment Bankers' association and other state business and financial organizations that more teeth should be put in the law and that it should be amended so as to remove those features which have shown a tendency to hamper and discourage legitimate business enterprise. The goal of the legislature will be a law that will make it harder to finance a dishonest proposition and easier to finance an honest one.

"Blue sky" laws are popular except with the promoters of fake financing. That ought to be excuse enough for keeping them on the statute books and for legislative consideration of every proposal containing a promise to make them more beneficial.

THE NEW PRESIDENT'S WIFE

The "first lady" of the land always has a big influence on other women and girls. She not merely influences styles of dress, but she affects ideals. It is noteworthy then that Mrs. Herbert Hoover has always lived a life of great activity and has always done practical things. She was the first girl in Stanford university to go on geological field trips. She was one of the first women to drive an automobile. She wants girls to know something about electrical engineering, carpentering, plumbing, and things of that sort. She is vice-president of the Girl Scouts, which stands for practical training.

The girls will look up to Mrs. Hoover, and will get the idea from her that fashion and society are not the principal things. She will show them that when they learn to do things well, the rest of the things they need will come without undue effort.

The Way of the World

By GROVE PATTERSON

WHERE FROM?

There are those who believe we have all lived upon the earth before and that we go merely to come again. They believe in what they call re-incarnation. We come back in higher form, as a finer type of personality, if we win that right by our behavior now. It would seem that there might be some foundation for this faith. How does man come by his finest impulses? Why does he visualize ideals and strive to realize them? Somebody has said: "We come from a world where we have known incredible standards of excellence. And we dimly remember beauties which we have not seized again. And we go each to that world."

THE PATH OF FREEDOM

In a verse of that splendid hymn one reads: "O beautiful for pilgrim feet, Whose stern, impassioned stress, A thoroughfare for freedom beat Across the wilderness." And indeed our forefathers had a certain passion for freedom of worship and expression. They fled to the unknown wilderness of America to find it. They made, indeed, a path of freedom. But they had weaknesses which we have inherited. What they sometimes called freedom was rather an insistence on having their own way against the wishes and rights of others. Early churchmen made a great deal of freedom, sung its praises, journeyed far to find it, but they weren't above persecuting Quakers and others.

A path of freedom through the wilderness is not a path of freedom if it is only OUR path.

DISCIPLINE

Discipline is exercise for the soul. Whatever church we may or may not belong to it will be an excellent thing for us to deny ourselves something very definite and pleasant during that season of the year called Lent. If we suffer a little, it's the discipline that makes us strong. No use giving up anything if there's no sacrifice in it, no discipline.

DRUDGERY

Many young men of the present crop can not understand why they can not step from school, or from the nursery for that matter, right into a good job paying a large salary. They hope and confidently expect to skip all the processes of drudgery. Strange that their education, so-called, hasn't taught them better than that. Good crops do not spring full grown out of the ground. Even flowers as beautiful as a college boy or girl do not grow to the full height of beauty between sunset and dawn. It was Margaret Fuller, a wise woman, who wrote:

"Drudgery is as necessary to call out the treasures of the mind as harrowing and planting those of the earth."

Even very young people ought to be able to understand that there are processes of training that are necessary to achievement—even to the safe holding of a fair job.

The Diary

of a

New Yorker

By WALTER WINCHELL

NEW YORK. — There is a thrilling tale making the local rounds about a schemer whose dream came true. He peddled an idea to a famous razor blade firm, and received $100,000 for the suggestion, which saves the company a million dollars each year.

His idea was that a package containing five or ten razor blades would sell for the same price as the old half dozen or dozen packages.

THE INGRATE!

Harry Richmond, the warbler, who was christened after a night club, overheard this one. A very intoxicated fellow, who was hugging a corner lamp post, halted a passing cop and hiccupped: "Wouldju be so kind as to tell me where the hell am I?"

"You are now at the corner of 50th Street and Broadway," was the affable reply.

"Never mind the details," scolded the stew, "what city is it?"

GOOD OLD JERSEY!

An indication that New Jersey has not succumbed to such new-fangled ideas as prohibition is supplied with the following ad clipped by Bernard Mullady from the Jersey Observer of November 16:

"Bartender, 25 years' experience, seeks position. Box B-52, Observer, Union City."

QUITESO, QUITESO

Alexander Woolcott, recently a critic, who retired from the daily prints to devote more time to his tomes, magazine articles and lectures, was one of a group discussing contemporary dramatic reviewing. "Ah," mused one, "but you certainly could be mean in your line, Alex. I remember every cruel thing you ever said about Eva Le Gallienne, for instance."

"Well," replied the former critic, "at least I didn't think she was unimportant. You are never unimportant, you know, when you can prompt people to throw a ton of brick at you."

Alma Gluck hurled a compliment at Woolcott when she cooed: "Anyhow, I miss you. I miss you as much as I would a front tooth."

HELEBRATING

Steer clear of the steer joints, for they are where the unsuspecting sucker is taken like Mark Willebrandt took Broadway. It is in these dives where the Ring hostesses suddenly start the London Bridge Is Falling Down. The stew like to play, of course, but a cue one of the gels suggests a single file formation. After hopping around until dizzy the leader aims for the saloon in the rear. This is known as "The March to the Bar," where each of the lads is coaxed into buying separate rounds of drinks for the crowd.

The women are given "downs" by the bartender. A "down" is a Delmonico glass of ginger ale, but the spender thinks she is drinking likker.

In fewer words, the cluck gets the alleged stuff and the phrail gets the indignation.

"Well," quipped Julius Tannen, at the Liberty Theater, "our revue still is a hit because it has had two openings and only one closing, so far." It was a sly introduction to "The New Americana," which was revived again after its sudden fainting spell of a few weeks ago. The new version of the J. P. McEvoy musical retains many of the best features that were in the last edition and adds new entertainment. But it still is a whobby affair, lacking the speed and cohesion of its more experienced competitors. It probably will not survive.

IBSEN AT HIS BEST

Most of us who attend Henrik Ibsen's "The Wild Duck" at the 49th Street Theater are convinced that this town of ours has no finer play to offer to the lovers of drama.

This Ibsenite broadside against befooled idealism and muddled mediocrity is a poignant document of emotional nobility and ignobility. The fizzle-brained Hjalmar Ekdal, with his grandiose oratorical, his lugubrious soliloquies for his "good old father," his "good old mother," his emotional unconsistencies, his serenely moving, stultifying, sacrificing Gina, suppressing the flame of conflict in her soul until that brief but sharply painful outburst in the final act when she hurls herself upon the dead body of her daughter, the wistful Hedvig, groping wildly in her childish mind for an explanation of her father's sudden brutal rejection of her — these are a few of the personalities Ibsen thrusts upon us in what I believe to be his greatest play.

THE POOR LITTLE RICH BOY

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—The Democrats are in a dreadful temper with one another because of their recent bad beating. Dissension threatens in the Republican ranks because of the G. O. P.'s great triumph.

Among the Democrats, each seeks to put the responsibility upon somebody else for the licking they got.

Among the Republicans, each of a goodly number of leaders claims almost exclusive credit for the victory they won—and demands recognition accordingly.

Senator Borah thinks he elected Herbert Hoover. Senator Moses thinks he did it.

The former is chairman of the senate foreign relations committee and an anti-imperialist of deepest dye. The latter is a high-ranking member of the same committee and a jingo of purest ray serene. The north and south poles are not farther apart than these two, on the subject of foreign affairs.

Senator Borah expects Mr. Hoover to take his advice on all international questions. Senator Moses expects Mr. Hoover to take his.

Senator Borah stands pat for an extra session of congress next summer, to relieve agriculture.

Chairman McNary, of the senate's agriculture committee, who considers that he delivered the farm vote to the G. O. P., wants a relief measure passed this winter. In his opinion, an extra session would be a bad thing.

Congressman Tilson, Republican manager and most powerful member of the house of representatives, who tutored Mr.

Hoover in practical politics throughout the last campaign, insists on an extra session—but not to relieve agriculture—to increase the tariff instead.

Even though farm relief passes the senate, it will have hard sledding in the house of representatives without Congressman Tilson's help.

And Congressman Tilson holds that legislation can do little for agriculture, at best. In his judgment, only the slow processes of evolution can benefit the farmer. He doubts if the latter is as badly off as he imagines himself to be, anyway.

Should this view happen to prevail, Senator Brookhart, among others, will be fit to tie up.

Mr. Brookhart risked his standing as a loyal "progressive" to support the G. O. P. ticket—he was so sure that Mr. Hoover would provide the farmers with a better quality of relief than could be hoped for from Al Smith. Now—if the G. O. P. should disappoint him—oh my!

Senators Nye and Frazier are a couple of other "progressives" who stayed on the G. O. P. "reservation" at a critical time, and feel that they are entitled to a show for their white allies, in the way of "liberal policies," as their reward.

We can set this down as a certainty—anything that Senators Nye and Frazier ever interpret as a "liberal policy" will be interpreted by Senators Bingham, Phipps and Smoot as plain anarchy—nothing less.

And Senators Bingham, Phipps and Smoot think they had a lot to do with electing Mr. Hoover, too.

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Now we are coming to those more elaborate classifications—the beauty kits. And here we have selections ranging in price from two or three dollars up to $25 and more. So, you see, you can suit your pocketbook in selecting a beauty kit as a Christmas gift.

First, there's the regular every-day assortment, consisting of cleansing cream, skin food, toning lotion, rouge, lipstick and powder, all nicely packed in a crimson holiday box just breathing the spirit of beauty and good will.

Then there's a special eye kit, and any woman over 30 will love it. It contains absolutely everything to coax and keep your eyes even lovelier than nature meant them to be.

Then there's a little week-end kit—smart and most cosmopolitan looking—as it should be, for every train pulling in or out of the Gare du Nord in Paris counts scores of these little week-end cases traveling wherever the well-equipped woman goes.

You can have just the most suitable preparations packed in these cases—and they're lovely, and look lots more expensive than they really are.

But just because we've ended in the climax of beauty kits, you must remember not to overlook the fact that a single box of powder, or one smart cubist lipstick, has as much of a place on your Christmas list as the most elaborate remembrance. Don't exceed your stated allowance. (If you economize on small gifts you won't have to, for the after Christmas regrets take the joy out of giving.)

Give sensibly and economically, and oh, please, give happily. Love every moment of it—because it's that beautiful, all-pervading spirit of good-will which makes me love America at Christmas time, as I love no country in the world.

TOO MANY CALORIES MAKE FAT EVEN WITH SWEETS EXCLUDED

Why Can't She Reduce? "I am 15 pounds overweight and can't reduce to save my life! I never touch sugar, bread or butter, or any form of cereal or potatoes. I eat green vegetables and meat, fresh fruit and coffee. If I follow your 'reducing' diet (as given in your pamphlet), I'd be as big as a bed. Am only 5 feet tall and weigh 125 pounds. I can only reduce by eating positively nothing. If I were alone, I would never have to order sugar, bread, butter, cake or pies unless I am having guests. I eat all my food dry; I dislike gravies and sauces. I could be shut in a cage in a show for a month without food and not lose an ounce. Why? "MRS. P."

Your error, my dear Mrs. P. You couldn't shut up without eating anything for a month, and not lose an ounce. You would lose many, many ounces, and rapidly, too.

The reason you don't reduce is exactly the same one that applies to every one else—you are eating more than you need for your activities. It is not what you don't eat that makes you fat, even though what you don't eat includes bread, sugar, gravies, sauces, etc. In the food you do eat, you are making up enough calories so that you have more than enough for your needs.

I will concede you this point: As you are short (only 5 feet) you don't need nearly so much food to sustain you as a larger framed person would, any more than a little runaway auto needs so much gasoline to run on as a big touring car would. The only thing for you to do is to count your calories and see how much you are actually consuming, and cut them down so that your own excess will have to supply the deficit.

Your diet is a little bit too restricted. You should have milk in some form during the day—the equivalent of two glasses of it. You may have to go under 1,000 calories to reduce one and a half to two pounds a week. (One of average height and activities can reduce as much as that on 1,200 c. a day.) But it is not necessary to reduce two pounds weekly if you find it difficult—a loss of one pound a week will amount to 52 pounds in a year!

Remember this point: Any food is fattening if it is more than you need. Every summer I go to California and I always come back with 10 additional pounds, and it is mostly because I eat more than usual of the delicious fruits there.

Better send for our reducing and gaining pamphlet right away, Mrs. P.

W.—I do not advise the home removal of moles.

There are many remedies for the ordinary warts, such as the daily application of simple antiseptics such as iodine, bicarbonate of soda, collodion, boracic acid, lemon juice, sal ammoniac, etc. These are applied after thorough scrubbing first with soap and water.

However, you should go to a skin specialist for the removal of your moles, W.

DO YOU KNOW YOUR NEAREST, OR ARE THEY STRANGERS?

Do you remember the words to that little old song our mothers or grandmothers used to sing, entitled "Strangers Yet"? It runs like this:

"After years of life together, After fair and stormy weather, After travels in far lands, After touch of wedded hands, Child and parent scarce regret, When they part are strangers yet."

That may not be quoted correctly, but the sentiment is there. I can't just remember the rest of it, but it is to the same effect—that of such close association as marriage brings—caring for the babies—sometimes grieving together over a little grave—even then husband and wife seem utter strangers to one another. They talk to one another, but how little of their real selves do they reveal.

A woman who signed herself "Spain" wrote some time ago saying her husband had killed her love, and asking my advice about going away with a man she felt she could love. I told her to stay on for the sake of her four children. The following letter has just come. The writer's case is similar to Spain's.

Peter's Adventure

The Boys Stave Out Late

At Mother Dove's words the boys' face fell.

"What a shame that I shall not be able to meet your children!" said Peter, regretfully. "Baby Turtle Dove must be very cunning. I did want to see them."

"But they are not baby doves any longer," cooed she. "They were the cutest things you ever saw when they were tiny—just wee round balls of fluff—you could scarcely see their eyes they were so fat. But now they are quite as large as we are."

"Almost the only way one would know that they were young would be to hear them talk—they say such silly things, not a bit like grown-ups, you know."

"It is too bad, but I am quite sure that they will not return in time for you to see them. Those boys, once they get away from home, they generally stay out late, unless, of course, you are going to stay with us a long time. We should be very glad to have you," added Mrs. Dove, who was afraid she had not been polite. But Peter shook his head.

"Thank you very much, but I think I had better be going now. I have taken too much of your time as it is. But maybe I shall meet the children on my way back across the field. How shall I know them?"

"Easily," my dear fellow," declared Mr. Turtle Dove before his wife could answer. "Look at their necks the first thing, and if they have four rows of black feathers tipped with white on the sides of their throats you may be sure they are the children. There could be no mistake—no other Doves are marked like that. They have fluffy brown heads. They will turn sort of slate colored like wife and mine as they grow older. And look at the tails of any doves you happen to meet. Our sons' tails haven't a bit of white upon them. When you see a Turtle Dove that has white upon his tail you may be certain that he is a wise old bird, try as hard as he may to act like a young one."

"I believe I should know," said the boy, laughing. "Thank you very much."

"I shall think of you a great deal and wonder whether you are still homesick strangers in a strange land or whether you have gone back to the home you love so well!"

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE SILENT SUFFERER—He was oppressed, and he was afflicted, yet he opened not his mouth: he was brought as a lamb to the slaughter, and as a sheep before her shearers is dumb, so he openeth not his mouth.—Isa. 53:7.

NEW "TEETH" TO PROTECT "EASY MARKS"

Groups and individuals working on drafts of a proposed new "blue sky" law for Ohio have in mind an act which will eliminate some of the palpable defects in the old statute and effect other changes needed for facilitate administration of the law. That the law will be modified by the next legislature is deemed certain.

This agitation for modification should not be cited as proof that regulation of the securities business in this state has failed of its purpose to protect the public against fraudulent financial schemes and bogus stocks and bonds. In this field the state has accomplished much, and considers changing the securities law only with the thought in mind of accomplishing still more. Curbing the activities of the crooked stock salesman may be bureaucracy and socialism, as enemies of the "blue sky" law charge, but first it is good government and good business.

It seems to be the unanimous thought of the Ohio State Bar Association Investment Bankers' association and other state business and financial organizations that more teeth should be put in the law and that it should be amended so as to remove those features which have shown a tendency to hamper and discourage legitimate business enterprise. The goal of the legislature will be a law that will make it harder to finance a dishonest proposition and easier to finance an honest one.

"Blue sky" laws are popular except with the promoters of fake financing. That ought to be excuse enough for keeping them on the statute books and for legislative consideration of every proposal containing a promise to make them more beneficial.

THE NEW PRESIDENT'S WIFE

The "first lady" of the land always has a big influence on other women and girls. She not merely influences styles of dress, but she affects ideals. It is noteworthy then that Mrs. Herbert Hoover has always lived a life of great activity and has always done practical things. She was the first girl in Stanford university to go on geological field trips. She was one of the first women to drive an automobile. She wants girls to know something about electrical engineering, carpentering, plumbing, and things of that sort. She is vice-president of the Girl Scouts, which stands for practical training.

The girls will look up to Mrs. Hoover, and will get the idea from her that fashion and society are not the principal things. She will show them that when they learn to do things well, the rest of the things they need will come without undue effort.

The Way of the World

WHERE FROM?

There are those who believe we have all lived upon the earth before and that we go merely to come again. They believe in what they call re-incarnation. We come back in higher form, as a finer type of personality, if we win that right by our behavior now. It would seem that there might be some foundation for this faith. How does man come by his finest impulses? Why does he visualize ideals and strive to realize them? Somebody has said: "We come from a world where we have known incredible standards of excellence. And we dimly remember beauties which we have not seized again. And we go each to that world."

THE PATH OF FREEDOM

In a verse of that splendid hymn one reads:
"O beautiful for pilgrim feet,
Whose stern, impassioned stress,
A thoroughfare for freedom beat
Across the wilderness."

And indeed our forefathers had a certain passion for freedom of worship and expression. They fled to the unknown wilderness of America to find it. They made, indeed, a path of freedom. But they had weaknesses which we have inherited. What they sometimes called freedom was rather an insistence on having their own way against the wishes and rights of others. Early churchmen made a great deal of freedom, sung its praises, journeyed far to find it, but they weren't above persecuting Quakers and others.

A path of freedom through the wilderness is not a path of freedom if it is only OUR path.

DISCIPLINE

Discipline is exercise for the soul. Whatever church we may or may not belong to it will be an excellent thing for us to deny ourselves something very definite and pleasant during that season of the year called Lent. If we suffer a little, it's the discipline that makes us strong. No use giving up anything if there's no sacrifice in it, no discipline.

DRUDGERY

Many young men of the present crop can not understand why they can not step from school, or from the nursery for that matter, right into a good job paying a large salary. They hope and confidently expect to skip all the processes of drudgery. Strange that their education, so-called, hasn't taught them better than that. Good crops do not spring full grown out of the ground. Even flowers as beautiful as a college boy or girl do not grow to the full height of beauty between sunset and dawn. It was Margaret Fuller, a wise woman, who wrote:

"Drudgery is as necessary to call out the treasures of the mind as harrowing and planting those of the earth."

Even very young people ought to be able to understand that there are processes of training that are necessary to achievement—even to the safe holding of a fair job.

His idea was that a package containing five or ten razor blades would sell for the same price as the old half dozen or dozen packages.

Alma Gluck hurled a compliment at Woodcott when she cooed: "Anyhow, I miss you, I miss you as much as I would a front tooth."

Likewise, when the automobile world first took up four-wheel brakes, one company spent thousands of dollars in advertising against these new, improved brakes. Of course the only effect of this was for the company to brand itself as behind the times and to lose much business that season. Nothing is ever so futile in business as to try to hold back the tides. If I use your 'reducing' diet (as given in your pamphlet), I'd be as big as a bed. Am only 5 feet tall and weigh 125 pounds. I can only reduce by eating positively nothing. If I were alone, I would never have to order sugar, bread, butter, potatoes, cereals. I never bake cake or pies unless I am having guests. I eat all my food dry; I dislike gravies and sauces. I could be shut in a cage in a show for a month without food and not lose an ounce. Why?"
"MRS. P."

Your error, my dear Mrs. P. You couldn't be shut up without eating anything for a month, and not lose an ounce. You would lose many, many ounces, and rapidly, too.

The reason you don't reduce is exactly the same one that applies to every one else—you are eating more than you need for your activities. It is not what you don't eat that makes you fat, even though what you don't eat includes bread, sugar, gravies, sauces, etc. In the food you do eat, you are making up enough calories so that you have more than enough for your needs.

I will concede you this point: As you are short (only 5 feet) you don't need nearly so much food to sustain you as a larger framed person would, any more than a little runabout auto needs so much gasoline to run on as a big touring car would. The only thing for you to do is to count your calories and see how much you are actually consuming, and

Your diet is a little bit too restricted. You should have milk in some form during the day—the equivalent of two glasses of it. You may have to go under 1,000 calories to reduce one and a half to two pounds a week. (One of average height and activities can reduce as much as that on 1,200 C. a day.) But it is not necessary to reduce two pounds weekly if you find it difficult—a loss of one pound a week will amount to 52 pounds in a year!

Remember this point: Any food is fattening if it is more than you need. Every summer I go to California and I always come back with 10 additional pounds, and it is mostly because I eat more than usual of the delicious fruits there.

Better send for our reducing and gaining pamphlet right away, Mrs. P.

W.—I do not advise the home removal of moles.

There are many remedies for the ordinary warts, such as the daily application of simple antiseptics such as iodine, bicarbonate of soda, collodion, boracic acid, lemon juice, sal ammoniac, etc. These are applied after thorough scrubbing first with soap and water.

However, you should go to a skin specialist for the removal of your moles, W.

Mrs. P., Topeka, Kansas—

Sorry we can't send you the Petting Pamphlet and the Atonic Abdominal Wall article though you sent the coin, for you did not give your address, nor send a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope. Will you write again, please, enclosing a good-sized, stamped envelope and enclose this clipping?

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

DO YOU KNOW YOUR NEAREST? OR ARE THEY STRANGERS?

Do you remember life words to that little old song our mothers or grandmothers used to sing, entitled "Strangers Yet"? It runs like this:

"After years of life together,
After fair and stormy weather,
After travels in far lands,
After touch of wedded hands,
Child and parent scarce regret,
When they part are strangers yet."

That may not be quoted correctly, but the sentiment is there. I can't just remember the rest of it, but it is to the same effect: that married people, too, after years of such close association as marriage brings—caring for the babies—sometimes grieving together over a little grave—even then husband and wife seem utter strangers to one another. They talk to one another, but how little of their real selves do they reveal.

A woman who signed herself "Spain" wrote some time ago saying her husband had killed her love, and asking my advice about going away with a man she felt she could love. I told her to stay on for the sake of her four children. The following letter has just come. The writer's case is similar to Spain's.

Peter's Adventure

By MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

The Boys Stay Out Late

At Mother Dove's words the boy's face fell.

"What a shame that I shall not be able to meet your children," said Peter, regretfully. "Baby Turtle Doves must be very cunning. I did want to see them."

"But they are not baby doves any longer," cooed she. "They were the cutest things you ever saw when they were tiny—just wee round balls of fluff—you could scarcely see their eyes they were so fat. But now they are quite as large as we are."

"Almost the only way one would know that they were young would be to hear them talk—they say such silly things, not a bit like grown-ups, you know."

"It is too bad, but I am quite sure that they will not return in time for you to see them. Those boys, once they get away from home, they generally stay out late, unless, of course, you are going to stay with us a long time. We should be very glad to have you," added Mrs. Dove, quietly. She was afraid she had not been polite. But Peter shook his head.

"Thank you very much, but I think I had better be going now. I have taken too much of your time as it is. But maybe I shall meet the children on my way back across the field. How shall I know them?"

"Easily, my dear fellow," declared Mr. Turtle Dove before his wife could answer. "Look at their necks the first thing, and if they have four rows of black feathers tipped with white on the sides of their throats you may be sure they are the children. There could be no mistake—no other Doves are marked like that. They have fluffy brown heads, these will turn sort of slate colored like wife's and mine as they grow older. And look at the tails of any doves you happen to meet. Our sons' tails haven't a bit of white upon them. When you see a Turtle Dove that has white upon his tail you may be certain that he is a wise old bird, try as

"I believe I should know," said Turtle Dove if I should meet him," said the boy, laughing. "Thank you very much."

"I shall think of you a great deal and wonder whether you are still homeless strangers in a strange land or whether you have gone back to the home you love so well!"

Next—"Two Is Company," So Peter Leaves."

More will be spent on the Christmas campaign that the $12,000,000 of the one just ended, but you won't have to listen to any speeches for or against Santa Claus.—Tampa Morning Tribune.

LET'S LIVE! By MILDRED LAMB

READ THIS FIRST:
Byrd and Larry Browning, madly in love with each other, were so different in temperament that you decide almost with the first notes of the wedding march that they couldn't possibly make a "go" of their marriage.

Byrd, clinging to her old-fashioned ideals of children, a home of their own, mutual love, consideration and forbearance, was opposed by Larry, who wanted life to be exciting, colorful and stimulating. He was the gay center of a crowd composed of Tiny and Fred Oberman, rat, generous and speedy; Jack Duncan, a sheik, who fell madly in love with all beautiful women, including Byrd, and his neglected wife, Margy, who filled her life with the care of her three little children and her home; Chet Everson, an ambitious young banker, who proved a friend in need to Byrd, and India Campbell, a former sweetheart of Larry's, a modern Cleopatra, who still held him in her toils.

Under Jack's unscrupulous leadership, Larry and he had gone heavily into debt, financing the stock of the Builders' Supply Company, hoping to make large profits with little labor. Larry's winning personality and charm had brought him continued loans from Byrd's father, president of the Jacksonville Savings and Loan Company.

Byrd's worries were increasing, for, in spite of the economy that he forced her to practice, Larry, himself, was becoming more and more extravagant, and her mild criticisms precipitated quarrels of unusual bitterness and disastrous consequences.

One night Larry walked out of the apartment after a disagreement, and took India to a dance. They met with an accident, which Byrd learned about much later. She worried over the success of parties that Larry gave, any one of which cost more than their entire month's grocery bill, counting the cost of articles which India occasionally smashed and the liquor that was consumed. But she worried most of all because Larry continually upbraided her with her puritanism.

Frank E. Saypp and Olivia Cost Horen have been appointed and qualified as Administrators of the estate of Susan Elizabeth Cost, late of Greene County, Ohio, deceased. Dated this 10th day of December, A. D. 1928.

Correspondent 91-R

DIES ON TUESDAY

Mrs. Sarah Phoenix, 88, died at her home, 439 E. Main St., Tuesday afternoon at 12:15 o'clock.

She was born in Kentucky, February 27, 1840 and lived in Xenia the past twenty-five years, moving here from Springfield, O. Her husband, Gabriel Phoenix, died twenty-five years ago.

Surviving are four sons and four daughters: Granville and Albert of Dayton; George of Franklin, O.; and Merritt, of Xenia; Mrs. Charles Vinegar, Corinth, Ky.; Mrs. William P. Holloway, Summerville; Mrs. Fred Singleton, Lebanon, O.; and Miss Frances Phoenix, at home.

Mrs. Phoenix was a member of the Third Baptist Church twenty years. Funeral services will be held at that church Friday at 1:30 p. m., with burial in Cherry Grove Cemetery.

There will be a reception tendered the Rev. and Mrs. R. D. Murdoch of the First A. M. E. Church Thursday night at the church from eight to ten. The following program will be rendered:

Song, choir; prayer, Rev. George Maxwell, P. E.; song, choir; welcome address, Mr. Henry Johnson; duet, Mr. and Mrs. Dickerson; greetings, Rev. A. L. Dooley; vocal solo, Miss Anna Thomas; responses, Rev. R. D. Murdoch; Mrs. R. D. Murdoch; instrumental solo, Mrs. Bertha Greene; closing remarks, Dean G. F. Woodson, Rev. P. A. Nichols, P. E.

All members, ministers and friends are cordially invited to attend.

Mrs. Mary Hill, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Mason, left Wednesday for her home in Youngstown, O.

Miss Sarah Marchant of Sabina, has been the guest for a few days of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James Marchant.

Mr. Wilbur Baker, who has been ill at the St. Elizabeth's Hospital of Dayton, is much improved and is now at the home of his mother, Mrs. James Marchant.

"It's not playing the game square with me."

Byrd opened the door for him, Jack whispered in her ear. "Hello, sweetheart. Still up on your high horse?"

Byrd did not answer, but her color mounted at his boldness.

As she worked about in the kitchen, parts of their conversation could be heard.

"Signed a contract for another bunch of advertising with the Donohue people today," Jack's voice was worried and irritable. "I had to put up my life insurance as security until we figured some way to raise the money."

Later there seemed to be an argument.

"I heard yesterday that the meller's all off. Acme Axle will be good for just what you put into it, and not a cent more," argued Jack.

Their voices dropped to sotto voce. She must get Jack out of the apartment.

"About tonight?" Byrd smiled archly at Jack as she went into the bedroom to get her hat. "I'm going to let you drive me as far as the Euclid market."

"You look as pink as a plum blossom this morning," Jack said, climbing into the smart roadster beside her, his eyes running up and down her warm, round little figure, with its tantalizing curves. Jack's eyes were like stagnant pools to Byrd. He was wise for his twenty-eight years. In his sickening sophistication he looked years older than Larry, although Larry was just three years younger.

Jack thoroughly believed that all beautiful women were interested in men. Their beauty, he argued, rendered them more susceptible to the favors men were always too ready to bestow.

"When are you going to come down and have lunch with me? Promise to come soon!" he wheedled.

Byrd looked down demurely at her two little hands, which were clasped together tensely. Had he gotten the check away from Larry? She swallowed hard. Just how far could she trust Jack in a business, was? Then she nodded, "Yes."

"I think you're the most glorious creature in the world. I'm crazy about you."

Jack took one of her hands and pressed it eagerly to his lips. She was only dumbly aware of what he was doing. She was only concerned about whether Larry had given the money to Jack.

READ THIS FIRST:

Byrd and Larry Browning, madly in love with each other, were so different in temperament that you could almost with the first notes of the wedding march that they couldn't possibly make a "go" of their marriage.

Byrd, clinging to her old-fashioned ideals of children, a home of their own, mutual love, consideration and forbearance, was opposed by Larry, who wanted life to be exciting, colorful and stimulating. He was the gay center of a crowd composed of Tiny and Fred Oberman, fat, generous and speedy; Jack Dunca, a shiek, who fell madly in love with all beautiful women, including Byrd, and his neglected wife, Margy, who filled her life with the care of her three little children and her home; Chet Everson, an ambitious young banker, who proved a friend in need to Byrd, and India Campbell, a former sweetheart of Larry's, a modern Cleopatra, who still held him in her toils.

Under Jack's unscrupulous leadership, Larry and he had gone heavily into debt, floating the stock of the Builders' Supply Company, hoping to make large profits with little labor. Larry's winning personality and charm had brought him continued loans from Byrd's father, president of the Jacksonville Savings and Loan Company.

Byrd's worries were increasing, for, in spite of the economy that he forced her to practice, Larry, himself, was becoming more extravagant, and her mild criticisms precipitated quarrels of unusual bitterness and disastrous consequences. One night Larry walked out of the apartment after a disagreement, and took India to a dance. They met with an accident, which Byrd learned about much later. She worried over the succession of parties that Larry gave, any one of which cost more than their entire month's grocery bill, counting the cost of articles which India occasionally smashed and the liquor that was consumed. But she worried most of all because Larry continually upbraided her with her puritanism. Try as she could, she couldn't go the pace of this crowd. Their financial difficulties becoming acute, Byrd appealed to Chet for a small loan until the savings account arrived which her father was sending her. Chet was now cashier at a branch of the First National, and a person of growing importance. One day, after borrowing some money from the reluctant Chet, on the grounds of their long friendship, Larry resorted to arguments not entirely based on facts, and succeeded in selling Chet stock in the Builders' Supply Company against Chet's better judgment.

At dinner that night, during a half-whispered telephone conversation, Byrd heard Larry agree to pay India the damages from their automobile accident.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXI

"No dessert for me," said Larry, "but you can bring me a bottle of white rock."

Byrd's small, capable hands were shaking like aspen leaves as she carried in two pieces of deliciously browned apple pie.

She saw that he had brought one of his precious bottles out from the secret cupboard. Utter distress gripped her when ever Larry prepared to spend the evening drinking highballs. She closed her lips firmly. She only aggravated the situation by telling him how bad they were for him. In fact, he knew.

Byrd cleared the little table and sat down facing Larry.

"I couldn't help hearing part of your conversation with India just now," she said, in a low, strained voice. "Your conduct with her is making me perfectly miserable."

Byrd would wait for hours, sometimes days, before she mentioned a subject, and then, having set tinder to the fuel, and helpless to smother it, she would give her life to be able to retract what she had said.

"I'm not surprised that you were listening," Larry answered.

His black eyes, so heavily shadowed with shadows, were uncannily bright with fever and the artificial glow induced by the drinks he had had.

He deliberately raised his glass to his lips and swallowed.

"Well, what have you got to criticize now?" he asked, eyeing Byrd defiantly.

"You've humiliated me ever since our marriage by keeping up a friendship with a girl you've known intimately for years. India's unscrupulous and calculating. She's not pursuing you like this just for the fun she gets out of your society. She's doing to you what she's done to every man who has succumbed to her wiles. And it's not playing the game fair with me!"

Righteous indignation had actually dried the tears that had been ready to well up into her eyes.

"I have dinner with India and go to a dance. You have lunch with Chet and go to a baseball game. There's not much difference," said Larry, sarcastically.

"I don't take money from him!" said Byrd, heatedly. Then she stopped, aghast. She was such a dummy at this domestic game of battledore and shuttlecock that she actually turned her advantage to a point in Larry's favor.

"No?" asked Larry, with just a shadow of derision in his good-looking eyes.

It was just like Larry to misinterpret her motive in that transaction with Chet. And always hold against her an act that was done to help him.

"Oh, I think you're hateful!" Byrd's face, twisted with anguish revealed the depths of her despair and humiliation. It was an acknowledgment of defeat, for she could never spar with anyone so skillful. "I think all men are beasts! Horrid, selfish beasts!"

Byrd burst into a paroxysm of tears. She wept until she lay a crumpled and exhausted heap on the foot of the davenport.

Contrition was in Larry's eyes, and he looked as if he were about to comfort her, but his knee was hurting frightfully.

"Look here, Byrd," he said, finally, after she had quieted down. "I'm dead serious when I say I don't want India's name mentioned again. I'm not in love with her. She diverts and amuses me. If you had acted like a human being the other night, things wouldn't have turned out as they did. If you were less like your Puritan ancestors and more like a fun-loving girl living in the twentieth century, we wouldn't have all these misunderstandings."

Larry remembered the accumulated abuse he had suffered since his marriage.

"Damn marriage, anyhow! What fools men are to be taken in by it."

Larry's face was twisted as much with disgust for the marital state as by the thought of the girl who had been his wife.

"Guess you better call the doctor," he said, with a groan and a look toward Byrd which said she was to blame for this, too.

Byrd telephoned Dr. Newcomb. She met him at the door and gave him a brief account of Larry's accident. The doctor's quick, falcon-like eyes took in the situation at a glance. His bristling, grey mustache couldn't entirely conceal the omniscient lines of his square mouth.

He looked quizzically at the glass at Larry's side.

"Worst thing in the world for you right now. Stimulants always aggravate pain," he bit off his words brusquely. He took the glass and handed it to Byrd. Larry followed it out of the room with resentful eyes.

Byrd brought hot water and the doctor soaked the knee for ten minutes. Then he bandaged it. When he left, he gave Byrd further directions. Hot compresses every hour. Absolute rest for a few days. No stimulants of any kind.

"How about a sleeping powder?" asked Larry, now writhing in pain. "No use, after what you've been drinking," Dr. Newcomb said, grimly.

Byrd colored and wondered that Larry could maintain his self-respect.

"He certainly had his nerve, telling me where to get off," Larry said, irritably.

Byrd followed the doctor's orders to a "T" all night long, setting the alarm clock conscientiously every hour, and trying to get a little sleep in between.

In the morning, just as she was dropping in a heavy slumber, Larry called for her cheerfully and asked if

The Theater

By SAM LOVE

United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Dec. 12. — Although no "actors' relief" bills have come up before congress and "stage relief" played hardly any part in the recent campaign, a group of New York playwrights, actors, designers and other workers will shortly launch a scheme familiar to all farmers—co-operative marketing.

Miner's old Bowery theater is to be the scene of the experiment of introducing art to the public minus the middleman's profit. The "Playwrights' Cooperative" is the name of the group, which is headed by Ruth Allen, who founded and managed for three years the Cincinnati Art Theater. All plays will be on a profit-sharing basis, everyone involved divvying up everything over operating expense, should a surplus develop.

The first production selected has been Arthur Schnitzler's "Playing With Love," with Greta Knapp, an Austrian actress who starred in the production in Vienna two years ago, in the leading role. The Bowery theater has been renamed the Royal.

Philadelphia critics, where the British Edgar Wallace's melodrama, "Sign of the Leopard," has been having its spots polished for New York, have discovered that London newspapermen are much like their American brothers under the skin. Or else Mr. Wallace, as he frequently is, is spoofing. To save the heroine in the Wallace play, a stage reporter is constantly popping in and out, taking notes and accusing people of things. He looks just like the reporters in the Chicago Criminal Courts press room.

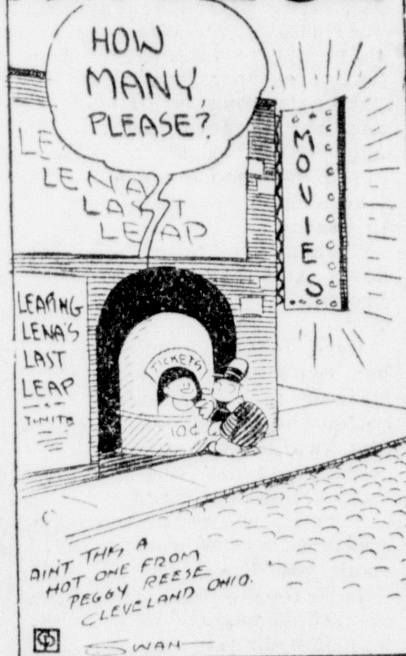

The legitimate stage's Doug and Mary meaning no disrespect to anybody—Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, will be back on Broadway in January in the Theater Guild's long-promised production, "Playing At Love." The name of the play, however, has been changed to "Caprice."

Four stars are to shine in "Florinda," the new Bagby-Romilly musical comedy which Earl Carroll will present about the middle of January. Three of them already signed are Fannie Brice, Lionel Atwill and Leon Errol. The fourth will have to be able to sing. . . . Paul Robeson, the Negro singer and actor, is to leave the cast of the London "Show Boat" company to play in something turned out by the Edgar Wallace plot and fancy factory. In "White Lilacs," the composer, Chopin, is supposed to become so enraged when he reads the novel, "Lucretia Floriani," in which Madame Sand comments on her love affair with him, that he tears it to bits. The management has purchased at a bar-

CHRISTMAS SPIRIT SHOULD NOT EXTEND TO STEALING TREES

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 12.—Christmas spirit on the part of land-owners whose acres produce young evergreen trees, should not extend to the point at which the owner of the land looks leniently on the theft of Christmas trees, in the opinion of F. W. Dean, extension forester of the Ohio State University.

"There is too much pilfering and cutting of wild evergreens for Christmas trees, with or without the consent of the owners," says Dean. "Thousands of young trees are being removed from fields that are reseeding themselves to natural forest."

"Growing Christmas trees as a crop is a profitable venture and whether the trees are planted or growing wild they can be marketed in nearby cities at a profitable figure to the owner. If they are stolen it means the same sort of loss to him as if wheat or corn were stolen from his fields. It will also discourage the growing of trees in a commercial way, which is increasing each year in many parts of the state."

"Ohio, of course, is not a typical evergreen state," Dean continued, "but there are scattered areas in the eastern half of the state where several kinds of native evergreens grow wild."

"In southeastern Ohio the scrub, pitch and shortleaf pine are common on old fields," Dean said. "In northeastern Ohio hemlock and white pine are restricted to a few counties in their natural range. Throughout western Ohio the common red cedar or juniper is frequently cut for Christmas decorations."

LOOK THESE OVER, MR. CLAUS

Dear Santa Claus: Letters addressed to you have been left at the office of THE GAZETTE. Fearing you would not have time to call for them, this being your busy season, the editor has taken the liberty of opening and publishing them, relying on THE GAZETTE'S heavy circulation along North Pole rural routes to acquaint you with the contents. Please give these your attention or outraged youth will blame—THE EDITOR.

Xenia, Ohio, December 6, 1928.
Dear Santa Claus:
How are you? I am fine.
I want a knife with a chane and watch.
Where are you? Are you still at north pole?
Your little friend
Harold T. Weiss.

Xenia, Ohio, December 5, 1928.
Dear Santa Claus:
How are you? I am alright. Are you going to come around this year? When will you be around? When are you going to come to Xenia, Ohio? Where are you now? I haven't told you what I want for Christmas yet. I want a bath robe. I want bed room slippers. A pencil on a ribbon to go around my neck. You know I like to sew, you gave me a sewing machine last year, but it was no good and I can not fix it so would you please bring me one this year.
Miss Lucile broke my doll about a month ago when we brought our dolls to school, and she broke my doll I cried but it did not do any good. The reason is because my mother said I would never get another.
I will set my doll out Christmas night so you will see her. Will you be hungry when you get here? I will set something out for you, because you have been so good to me.
I have been to toyland and it is very nice. I am nine years old. Will you please write to me? I will be very glad.
I am in the fourth grade. I am sorry that my sewing machine was not right.
Good-bye. I will go to bed now because it is late. Good-bye.
Your friend,
Merna E. Weiss.

STUDENTS TO GET LONG CHRISTMAS HOLIDAY

Anticipated Christmas holiday vacations are being eagerly awaited by students of the three Greene County colleges and pupils in the Xenia public schools.

Xenia school children will enjoy a ten-day vacation. School will be dismissed at 3:45 p. m. Friday, December 21 and studies will not be resumed until Wednesday, January 2.

Cedarville College students are looking forward to a period of idleness lasting nearly three weeks. The students voted to forego their usual vacation at Thanksgiving time, except on Thanksgiving Day, and take a longer lay-on at Christmas time. Consequently Cedarville students will cast study books aside Friday, December 14 and classes will not re-convene until January 3.

Because of the co-operative plan of education being followed, students at Antioch College will have only a week of leisure, whereas the college will actually be closed two weeks, from December 22 to January 7. The students work part time in class rooms and part time on jobs. Studies will stop but the jobs will not. Wilberforce University students will be granted a vacation of two weeks, extending from December 21 to January 3.

CHRISTMAS SPIRIT SHOULD NOT EXTEND TO STEALING TREES

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 12.—Christmas spirit on the part of landowners whose acres produce young evergreen trees, should not extend to the point at which the owner of the land looks leniently on the theft of Christmas trees, in the opinion of F. W. Dean, extension forester of the Ohio State University.

"There is too much pilfering and cutting of wild evergreens for Christmas trees, with or without the consent of the owners," says Dean. "Thousands of young trees are being removed from fields that are reseeding themselves to natural forest."

"Growing Christmas trees as a crop is a profitable venture and whether the trees are planted or growing wild they can be marketed in nearby cities at a profitable figure to the owner. If they are stolen it means the same sort of loss to him as if wheat or corn were stolen from his fields. It will also discourage the growing of trees in a commercial way, which is increasing each year in many parts of the state."

"In southeastern Ohio the scrub, pitch and shortleaf pine are common on old fields," Dean said. "In northeastern Ohio hemlock and white pine are restricted to a few counties in their natural range. Throughout western Ohio the common red cedar or juniper is frequently cut for Christmas decorations."

LOOK THESE OVER, MR. CLAUS

Dear Santa Claus: Letters addressed to you have been left at the office of THE GAZETTE. Pleading you would not have time to call for them, this being your busy season, the editor has taken the liberty of opening and publishing them, relying on THE GAZETTE'S heavy circulation along North Pole rural routes to acquaint you with the contents. Please give these your attention or outraged youth will blame—THE EDITOR.

Xenia, Ohio, December 6, 1928.
Dear Santa Claus:
How are you? I am fine. I want a knife with a chane and watch.
Where are you? Are you still at north pole?
Your little friend,
Harold T. Weiss.

December 5, 1928.
Dear Santa Claus:
How are you? I am alright. Are you going to come around this year? When will you be around? When are you going to come to Xenia, Ohio? Where are you now? I hav'nt told you what I want for Christmas yet. I want a bath robe. I want bed room slippers. A pencil on a ribbon to go around my neck.
You know I like to sew, you gave me a sewing machine last year, but it was no good and I can not fix it so would you please bring me one this year.
Miss Lucille broke my doll about a month ago when we brought our dolls to school, and she broke my doll I cried but it did not do any good. The reason is because my mother said I would never get another.
I will set my doll out Christmas night so you will see her. Will you be hungry when you get here? I will set something out for you, because you have been so good to me.

me. I have been to toylant and it is very nice. I am nine years old. Will you please write to me? I will be very glad.
I am in the fourth grade. I am sorry that my sewing machine was not all right.
Good-bye. I will go to bed now because it is late. Good-bye.
Your friend,
Merna E. Weiss.

STOP BAD BREATH

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

Olive Tablets bring no griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after 20 years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take nightly for a week and note the effect. 15c, 30c, 60c. All Druggists.

STUDENTS TO GET LONG CHRISTMAS HOLIDAY

Anticipated Christmas holiday vacations are being eagerly awaited by students of the three Greene County colleges and pupils in the Xenia public schools.

Xenia school children will enjoy a ten-day vacation. School will be dismissed at 2:45 p. m. Friday, December 21 and studies will not be resumed until Wednesday, January 2.

Cedarville College students are looking forward to a period of idleness lasting nearly three weeks. The students voted to forego their usual vacation at Thanksgiving time, except on Thanksgiving Day, and take a longer lay-on at Christmas time. Consequently Cedarville students will cast study books aside Friday, December 14 and classes will not re-convene until January 3.

Because of the co-operative plan of education being followed, students at Antioch College will have only a week of leisure, whereas the college will actually be closed two weeks, from December 22 to January 7. The students work part time in class rooms and part time on jobs. Studies will stop but the jobs will not.

Wilberforce University students will be granted a vacation of two weeks, extending from December 21 to January 3.
